COACHING PROGRAM

Rapid Learning Coaching: The CLI Difference

Our Rapid Learning Coaching Program quickly engages coachees in discovering, contemplating, and actively working toward their goals. Our coaching process is different from the traditional models; our approach helps individuals resolve ambivalence much faster. We help individuals identify their own values and beliefs and then act on them to achieve goals in a conscious, strategic manner.

We strengthen motivation through the use of “recap” workbooks that debrief each coaching session and provide assignments and support materials. These workbooks are a written assessment of the session with next steps recorded into them in a way that holds both the coach and the coachee accountable.

With participation in the CLI Rapid Learning Coaching Program, coachees also gain access to CLI's extensive resource library, which is comprised of tools and learning models collected throughout multiple decades of work.

We enhance our coaching sessions with assessment materials that allow your contributors to learn more about their impact at work. Select from 360° leadership assessments, the DISC or MBTI assessment series, or any number of assessments that measure specific skills and work style preferences.
